(In Chambers) ORDER FOR FILING OF DEFENDANT'S LETTER

Defendant's letter to the Court received in chambers on September 8, 1999, is hereby ordered filed.

The Clerk is directed to serve this minute order and a copy of defendant's letter on all counsel of record. A copy of the minute order only shall be served on defendant at his last known place of incarceration.

[Received: Sept. 8, 1999]

Dear Honor, Alice Marie Stotler.

The reason I'm bothering you so, is because I Carlos Dominguez Benitez have as a lawyer Craig wilke and I want to express wth all respect that I feel very unsatisfied with the presentations Craig wilke has presented.

My intentions with no means of disrespect are to ask you if possible, you may issue me a new lawyer. I am uncomfortable with Mr. Wilke's decision of encouragement having me sign a deal that I do not feel appropriate.

Your Honor Alice Marie Stotler I have comitted a crime for which I am accepting responsibility but I ask of you to please reconcider my case to less time. I feel that the time I'm facing will distroy my life and my families life. I have four children in my family I support, and are paying the consequences.

Your Honor Alice Stotler with all respect at heart I close this letter with this only oportunity.

Sincerely,

Carlos Dominguez.

THE CLERK: Item number 2, SA CR 99-67-AHS, United States of America vs. Carlos Dominguez.

Counsel, your appearances, please.

MS. LUEGE: Good afternoon, your Honor.

Carmen Luege on behalf of the United States.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. WILKE: Good afternoon, your Honor.

Craig Wilke on behalf of Carlos Dominguez who is present, in custody, and being assisted by a Spanish interpreter.

I apologize for the delay. I've been in Judge Edwards' courtroom.

THE INTERPRETER: Good afternoon, your Honor.

I'm Elisa Vasquez, Spanish interpreter.

THE COURT: Thank you.

This matter was added to the Court's calendar in an effort to accommodate the request of defense counsel with regard to permitting defendant to be heard directly.

The Court has reviewed the minute order of September 8th, which had attached to it the letter received from Mr. Carlos Dominguez. And that letter is before me now. And I assume it is in connection with that, as well as what Mr. Wilke has informed us, that brings the matter to [6] the Court today.

Mr. Dominguez, I invite you to make a statement to the Court if that continues to be your wish. I do want you to know that this is a public hearing, that you should be careful with respect to anything you discuss with the Court that pertains to the charges against you or your confidential communications with your attorney.

As I review the letter that was submitted to us, you were concerned with a presentation made to you, and I can only draw certain inferences in connection with that particular statement. Please feel free, however, to make the statement, or statements, that you feel are necessary in connection with your case or representation, as you wish.

THE DEFENDANT: The only thing that I was looking for when I made that petition, more than anything I wanted you to look for an opportunity—

THE COURT: Excuse me. Could you move that microphone closer to the interpreter please, so we can hear from the interpreter.

Once again, please start.

THE DEFENDANT: What I was looking for, for the change of attorneys because I am not satisfied with the representation. I am not satisfied and I'm not happy with the representation, because I don't know, actually I'm not familiar with the Articles of the Constitution, but I believe I [7] have been treated unjustly.

The only thing that I am asking for is a better opportunity, a better deal. I have a family to support. The only thing I'm looking for is for a better deal.

THE COURT: A better deal sounds to me as though you are talking about a disposition of your case other than trial.

Is that what you are referring to?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes. At no time have I decided to go to any trial.

THE COURT: I want you to understand that it is entirely up to you whether you have a trial and entirely up to you to have an attorney represent you, either at trial or to negotiate the case short of a trial.

The Court can not be involved with any of your plea negotiations. As a matter of law, the judges of this court and every court are precluded from being involved. I may not, therefore, ask you questions about, quote, “a better deal.” On the other hand, the Court needs to be concerned with the ability of you and your attorney to conduct this case—whether for trial or negotiations short of trial—in a professional, well informed manner.

What you are telling me so far is not pertaining to you and your attorney’s ability to handle the case, either for trial or for disposition. I can infer from what [8] you wrote to me that whatever it was that your attorney presented to you was not acceptable to you.

This does not reflect badly on your attorney. It has everything to do with what the prosecutor may have discussed with your attorney and your attorney brought the matter, as he is required to do, to your attention for consideration.

Does this explanation make sense to you?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

The only thing that I also—in other words, we haven’t been able to reach any agreement either.

THE COURT: “We,” meaning whom?

THE DEFENDANT: With my attorney, my defender.

The communication that we have doesn't—our interaction, the way he exposes the case is not—in other words, I don't know how to explain it. It's too—it's too complicated.

THE COURT: Why don't you take a seat for a moment.

(The defendant complies.)

THE COURT: Criminal cases in the courtroom tend to be complicated. So I accept your statement in that regard. Nonetheless you must understand my concern with trying to find out discreetly, carefully, what it is that may be a problem, if there is any problem, between you and [9] your attorney.

Mr. Wilke, I know that puts you in a difficult position, but I feel the Court must call upon you for any insight that you feel you can fairly and safely offer consistent with your duties as a defender to this client.

MR. WILKE: Thank you, your Honor.

I think the only thing that I can offer, which I think I put in my application for today's hearing, was that as of yesterday Mr. Dominguez declined any further communications.

THE COURT: And this was obviously your calling on him at his place of incarceration?

MR. WILKE: That's correct, your Honor.

I did actually meet with him, but we had a brief, five-minute conversation and we tried to get into the substance of what was going on, and he declined to discuss it with me.

THE COURT: I see. Thank you.

So at this point, I have information that it is on your side of this discussion, Mr. Dominguez, that there is not communication. Before I hear from you again, if you wish to speak, let me ask the Assistant U.S. Attorney for any insight that she may be in a position to offer, again, consistent with her duties as the prosecutor in the case, to help the Court better understand the posture of the matter.

[10]

MS. LUEGE: From our perspective, from the government's perspective, the concern that we have is that we have a trial date coming up on October 19th, which is at this point less than two weeks away.

And we sort of have no movement in the case at all, either in terms of negotiations, in terms of a trial continuance, in terms of getting ready for a trial, because Mr. Wilke has expressed to me the problem he's having. So we're kind of in a situation where we can't resolve any matter. It's kind of like the case is paralyzed, which is a bad thing for the government since, from our perspective, we have to get ready for this trial, if nobody can tell me what is it that we're doing.

I can tell the Court that I spoke with Mr. Driggs who represents the other defendant in this case, and that Mr. Driggs is out of town and on vacation, but that he was interested in getting a continuance of the trial. And I had discussed that continuance with Mr. Wilke, and actually Mr. Wilke also had explained to me that he had a basis to ask for a continuance and needed a continuance of this trial.

We had checked with the clerk of the Court and had informally discussed December 14th as a trial date that accommodated the remaining parties. I had drafted a stipulation to attempt to set a continuance of this case, I [11] had sent that to Mr. Driggs, who indeed signed the stipulation to continue the trial date.

And then it was in my pursuit of Mr. Wilke this morning saying, “I haven’t heard from you,” that it became clear that we sort of have the situation where the case is paralyzed because now one counsel wants a continuance, but this side of the table, it’s kind of paralyzed because we can’t move forward in any direction. And so, from my perspective, I sort of would like it to be resolved.

THE COURT: So as far as the government is concerned, the case can go to trial on October 19th, as scheduled?

MS. LUEGE: If we have to be ready, we will be ready, yes.

At this point, we’re still—I’m sending out transcripts to be redone and I’m doing things, assuming that at this point it looks like we’re going to trial. But, frankly, I would like a resolution.

The government has no objection to a continuance. And indeed, it appears from my conversation with both Mr. Wilke and Mr. Driggs that the defense is interested in a continuance. And I would have no objection to that.

THE COURT: And, of course, the Court has nothing before it now to suggest that anybody is asking for a continuance, albeit I accept counsel’s representation that [12] such has been discussed and in fact something has been written down so as to reflect on the third defendant in this case.

I guess, I need to find out whether or not Mr. Wilke is of the frame of mind, knowing what he knows about the case and having met with a lack of communication, whether he's ready to try the case for Mr. Dominguez on October the 19th.

Before I turn back to him and Mr. Dominguez, is there anything else that government counsel cares to add?

MS. LUEGE: No, nothing else, your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. LUEGE: Thank you.

THE COURT: Maybe it would behoove us to hear from you, Mr. Wilke, on that score before I inquire of Mr. Dominguez, who is obviously receiving all of this information through the interpreter.

MR. WILKE: Your Honor, there is additional discovery that the Assistant United States Attorney has indicated would be provided prior to trial. We haven't received that yet. That would be the only thing holding me up and not being able to try the case.

However, Mr. Dominguez, as he has indicated here in court, doesn't want a trial. And I have represented that to Ms. Luege on several occasions.

So to the extent that the government somehow wouldn't be ready on the 19th, it would be largely based on representations by me to Ms. Luege. I've told her all along there won't be a trial on the 19th based on my client's representations that he doesn't want a trial.

And I do not have another trial set for that date, however, and I suppose if there would be a trial on that date, I would be here and be ready to try it. Nobody seems to be asking for one, though.

THE COURT: I appreciate that.

And I think Mr. Dominguez needs to be told by the Court that there's nothing that the judge of the court can do with regard to making for happier, or better, or improved negotiations.

As I tried to explain at the outset, that is something that is off limits for the judges of the court. It is something that is up to you and your counsel, but significant responsibility in that regard rests with the prosecutor in the case. And whatever that person elects to offer is essentially what is presented, and there is not a great deal of choice.

What I am trying to say is that when there is a criminal charge, either there is a trial and the jury decides whether the accused person, yourself, is guilty or innocent, or there is some kind of negotiation short of [14] trial. I just need to make sure that you understand what the choices are.

But so far as I can discern, there is nothing inappropriate, unprofessional, incommunicative about the approach from your current appointed counsel. I have made the assumption that you're not in a position at this time to go out and hire your own counsel, and yet you want to have the assistance of counsel.

Since I am not in a position to identify anything amiss in your relationship and it is your choice not to speak to your attorney, I feel it is inappropriate for the Court to appoint a different lawyer to represent you. I am not seeing that there are currently grounds to somehow remove this attorney from representing you or handling your case.

In light of those observations, sir, I invite any additional information to be given to the Court that you feel should be conveyed.

THE DEFENDANT: Well, based on the information you have given me, I don't have anything else to add.

THE COURT: Very well then.

At this point, sir, what I intend to do is, have your case pend before the Court for a trial on October the 19th. This is not to say that you and your attorney may not consider and discuss with the prosecutor whether there [15] should be a resetting of this trial in light of further information to be provided to Mr. Wilke, and this is not to say that you won't be forced to a trial on October 19th.

Again, because there are other parties in this case, the Court is not in a position to resolve all of these issues. I am telling you today's present status. Obviously, it is entirely up to you as to whether or not you want the assistance of your attorney. But at this point, I must point out to you that having competent and capable representation, as you now have, is obviously in your best interest. I invite you to consider these thoughts as well while the matter continues to pend.

Unless the parties have anything additional for the Court to address today, we will go ahead and take our adjournment.

Mr. Wilke, anything else?

MR. WILKE: May I have just a moment, your Honor?

Nothing further, your Honor.

THE COURT: Ms. Luege?

MS. LUEGE: Nothing further, your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. That concludes proceedings for today.

We stand adjourned.

(Proceedings adjourned.)

THE CLERK: Calling item number 2, SA CR 99-67-AHS, United States vs. Carlos Dominguez.

Counsel, your appearances, please.

MS. LUEGE: Good afternoon, your Honor.

Carmen Luege on behalf of the United States.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. WILKE: Good afternoon, your Honor.

Craig Wilke on behalf of Carlos Dominguez who is present, in custody, and being assisted by a Spanish interpreter.

THE COURT: Thank you.

THE INTERPRETER: Good afternoon, your Honor.

Irma Lourdes Garcia, Spanish interpreter.

THE COURT: Thank you.

We have the matter of a change of plea before us in the case of Mr. Dominguez.

Now, this is the case that I met with you about very recently, and at the time Mr. Dominguez had indicated to us his concern for a, quote, "better deal." And I'm not at all certain that the parties have gone back, but it looks like they may have gone back for some kind of renegotiations.

Mr. Dominguez, I need to have you understand I can [5] not take your guilty plea unless you are making a free and voluntary guilty plea. To that end, I need to ask you a series of questions to make certain that you understand all of your rights, what the penalties are that you face, and that you understand that your plea agreement is not binding on the Court when it comes time for sentencing.

At this point, do you represent to the Court that you have had enough time to discuss your case completely with your attorney?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: I'm going to proceed to ask you questions, but I wish to remind you now that if at any time during the course of my questioning you would like some more time to discuss your case privately with your attorney, you need to tell me of that fact right away.

Will you do that?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: And if you do not understand something I'm asking of you, please tell me that so I can clarify my question.

Will you do that as well?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: And if in the course of these proceedings you simply change your mind about pleading guilty, then you must tell me that too, because we have a [6] date reserved for your trial, which is October 19th.

Do you understand that?

THE DEFENDANT: I do.

THE COURT: I'm also going to ask that the clerk place you under oath, which means you are sworn in as a witness.

You are giving up the right to remain silent, the privilege against self-incrimination, when you take the oath, and you promise to be truthful. If you make a false statement after you have been sworn in, you can be separately prosecuted for perjury or making a false statement.

Do you understand the things I am telling you?

THE DEFENDANT: I understand.

THE COURT: And are you willing to be sworn in as a witness and give up the right to remain silent and answer my questions truthfully?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: I will ask you to please face the clerk, raise your right hand, stand to be sworn.

(Defendant Sworn.)

THE COURT: Let me ask you—you may be seated.

Mr. Wilke, is that microphone working?

MR. WILKE: It is, your Honor.

Would you like it by the interpreter?

[7]

THE COURT: Please.

Please, state your full, true, legal name for me.

THE DEFENDANT: Carlos Dominguez-Benitez.

THE COURT: Can you spell the last name again for me again, please.

THE DEFENDANT: Carlos, C-a-r-l-o-s; Dominguez, D-o-m-i-n-g-u-e-z; Benitez, B-e-n- i-t-e-z.

THE COURT: Thank you.

What is your date of birth?

THE DEFENDANT: Six twelve sixty-eight.

THE COURT: Please, state the extent of your formal education or schooling.

THE DEFENDANT: In Mexico, I studied up to the second year in junior high. Here, I'm going to finish the course for my GED.

THE COURT: Here, meaning while you are in custody in the United States?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: And tell me what languages you speak.

THE DEFENDANT: Right now only Spanish.

THE COURT: Do you speak any English?

THE DEFENDANT: To tell you the truth, I have not put too much effort in it because of lack of practice, and I am embarrassed, but that is the—a purpose that I would like to do.

[8]

THE COURT: So you speak just a little English, but not well?

THE DEFENDANT: To tell you the truth, I prefer to say no, I don't speak it.

THE COURT: Do you read or write English?

THE DEFENDANT: I do not.

THE COURT: Do you read or write Spanish?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes, I do.

THE COURT: Both read and write?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: What kind of work have you done to support yourself?

THE DEFENDANT: Since I have been here, well, we brought something, I have worked as a musician, we formed two musical groups.

Later on I worked, I worked with a compadre, a church sponsor, in his group for five years. I also worked with another compadre of mine, church sponsor, and I helped him with his job as a mechanic. I have—I know how to do that a little bit.

THE COURT: Based upon your education, your experience, and this plea agreement that you have signed, do you believe it is in your best interest to go forward to plead guilty to Count One?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

[9]

THE COURT: Do you consider yourself to be in good health?

THE DEFENDANT: To tell you the truth, I have put in a lot of papers and I know that I am ill and I know that I have a pulmonary infection.

They have not listened to me. When I arrived, I was—I looked better, I looked heavier. It could be other problems. I asked—I had asked, I think it's called a request so they could check me over medically, but no, they have not paid attention to me.

THE COURT: Counsel, can I ask you to check that microphone? I'm not certain that it's working.

MR. WILKE: The light is on, your Honor, but it doesn't appear to be.

THE COURT: Let me just ask you to move the operations to the lectern, if you don't mind.

(Counsel and defendant comply.)

THE COURT: Let me ask you, sir, if you are now taking medication for any condition at all.

THE DEFENDANT: No, I'm not.

THE COURT: So as you stand before the Court today, are you under the influence of anything at all that impairs or affects your judgment?

THE DEFENDANT: I am fine. I have never done anything.

[10]

THE COURT: Do you feel well enough to proceed?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: Now, I'm going to go over with you the terms of the plea agreement that you have signed, but you must understand that the Court is not a party to this plea agreement. I just want to make certain that you understand what you have signed up to agree to, what you are agreeing to do, and make it clear to you that at this time no one has promised you or figured out what your sentence should be.

As you stand here now, has anybody promised you what the actual sentence will be in your case?

THE DEFENDANT: No.

THE COURT: You understand then from reading this plea agreement that if the Court accepts your guilty plea, we will ask the probation officer to prepare a presentence report, we will at a future date hear from you, your counsel, the U.S. Attorney, with regard to the sentencing guidelines and what is to be a proper sentence for your case under the law.

Is that your understanding?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: First of all, my understanding is that you wish to plead guilty to Count One of the Indictment.

Count One accuses you and others of a conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute methamphetamine.

[11]

And there is a second count, I believe, that is to be the subject of a motion to dismiss at the time of your sentencing.

Is that your understanding as well?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: Let me ask you or ask your counsel to turn to the page of the plea agreement where you signed your name.

It looks to me as though it was signed yesterday; is that right?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: And what is the name that you signed, please?

THE DEFENDANT: Carlos Dominguez.

THE COURT: And let me ask your counsel who the person is that signed on the next page.

MR. WILKE: It's Joe Hernandez, your Honor, the interpreter, certified Spanish interpreter, and myself.

THE COURT: Thank you.

And going back to where you signed it, Mr. Dominguez, you have made the following statement over your signature:

“This agreement has been read to me in Spanish, the language I understand best, and I have carefully discussed every part of it with my attorney. I [12] understand the terms of this agreement and I voluntarily agree to those terms. My attorney has advised me of my rights, of possible defenses, of the sentencing guideline provisions, and of the consequences of entering into this agreement. No promises or inducements have been made to me other than those contained in this agreement. No one has threatened or forced me in any way to enter into this agreement. I am satisfied with the representation of my attorney in this matter.”

Are all those things still true today?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes, they are.

THE COURT: Then I will rely upon what is above your signature and just review certain parts of this agreement with you.

First of all, the nature of the offense to which you are offering your guilty plea is the following:

That there was an agreement between two or more persons to possess with intent to distribute more than 500 grams of a substance containing a detectable amount of methamphetamine. And you became a member of that conspiracy knowing that its object was to possess methamphetamine with intent to distribute and intending to help accomplish that purpose.

Do you understand the nature of the offense to [13] which you offer your guilty plea?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: And from what you know of the circumstances, are you in fact guilty of that charge?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: In the next section of the plea agreement, there is a discussion about the penalties that you face.

You are reminded that absent a determination by the Court that your case satisfies the criteria, which apparently would be a safety valve exception, there is a mandatory minimum sentence that the Court must give you, which is ten years of imprisonment, followed by a five-year period of supervised release.

Do you understand the mandatory nature of the sentence the Court must impose as stated in paragraph 4?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: And at this point, has anyone promised you that you will in fact qualify for the so-called safety valve exception?

THE DEFENDANT: No.

THE COURT: So you realize the Court may give you a ten-year sentence or more, as provided for by law?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: Knowing that, do you still want to go [14] forward with your guilty plea?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: You must realize that the statutory maximum sentence provided for by law is actually as much as life imprisonment, a fine of up to $4 million, and a mandatory special assessment which is required, and that is in the sum of $100.

Do you understand the maximum penalties provided for by law?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: And knowing those consequences, do you still wish to go forward with your guilty plea?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: Mr. Wilke, is there some reason to believe that this defendant will in fact qualify for the safety valve calculation?

MR. WILKE: Yes, your Honor, there is.

THE COURT: But you've told him that is still subject to the Court's determination?

MR. WILKE: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

You should also understand that supervised release is a period of time that follows any imprisonment. During the period of supervised release, you are subject to various restrictions and requirements. If you violate one or more [15] of those conditions of supervised release, you can be separately incarcerated, returned to prison for a term that could be as much as life imprisonment.

Do you realize the significance of supervised release?

THE DEFENDANT: I do.

THE COURT: And knowing that, do you still wish to go forward with your guilty plea?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: There must be in law a factual basis for the Court to receive your guilty plea.

In paragraph 6 of your plea agreement, the following information is offered as the factual basis for your guilty plea: That you agreed to sell methamphetamine for eight—or strike that—5800 dollars per pound to someone who turned out to be a confidential informant. You obtained the methamphetamine from Marcelino Gomez-Benitez.

On May the 13th, you, in the company of Gomez-Benitez and Esteban Barrera-Martinez, met with the person who was the confidential informant and delivered approximately 1.3 kilograms of a substance containing methamphetamine. You were to receive $200 for every pound of methamphetamine you sold to the person that turned out to be the informant. At the time of this transaction, on May 13th, you knew that you were selling methamphetamine and [16] that methamphetamine is a controlled substance.

Is that an accurate statement?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: And you agree the Court should use those facts as a basis for accepting your guilty plea?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: Is there anything that you would add or change about the factual basis?

THE DEFENDANT: Well, the—to tell you the truth, the only thing that I had asked for was not able to be so. And let's go forward.

THE COURT: I'm not sure I understand your answer.

Is there something about the factual basis here that you would change or add to?

MR. WILKE: May I have a moment, your Honor?

THE COURT: Surely.

(Counsel and defendant confer.)

MR. WILKE: Your Honor, there's nothing else that needs to be added to the factual basis.

THE COURT: All right.

Let's go forward with the next section of your plea agreement, which discusses your constitutional rights.

This reminds you of the rights that you have in connection with having a trial, that you can have a trial before the Court if both sides will waive jury, or a jury [17] trial to find out if you are guilty or innocent of the charges against you in the indictment.

You will continue to have the assistance of counsel, both for trial as you have now, and for sentencing.

You have the right to have the case proceed to trial and require the government to prove your guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

You have the right to confront or cross-examine the witnesses who would testify at your trial. This means you or your attorney could question the witnesses to see if they are being truthful.

You would have the right to call witnesses on your behalf and to subpoena witnesses to testify.

At your trial, you could not be compelled to testify. And if you chose not to, that fact could not be used against you. The government would still have to prove you guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

You will be giving up all of these rights except the right to assistance of counsel if you plead guilty today. There won't be a trial.

Do you understand all of your constitutional rights?

THE DEFENDANT: I do.

THE COURT: Do you have any questions about those rights?

[18]

THE DEFENDANT: No, I do not.

THE COURT: Do you understand that if the Court accepts your guilty plea today, the next phase of your case will be sentencing?

THE DEFENDANT: I do.

THE COURT: And is that what you intend?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: Specifically then, do you give up your right to have a trial, whether before the Court or before a jury?

THE DEFENDANT: I do.

THE COURT: Do you give up your right to cross-examine or confront the witnesses who would be present for your trial?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: Do you give up the right to call witnesses on your behalf, including using the Court's compulsory process to compel the attendance of witnesses?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: And do you, once again, give up the right to remain silent or the privilege against self-incrimination in order to make your guilty plea?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: In the next section of your plea agreement called "Sentencing Factors," I see that you, [19] through your counsel, have discussed with the U.S. Attorney's Office the applicable sentencing guideline factors.

This is based upon their study of the law and a prediction about where your base offense level would come out, minus some credits for safety valve consideration, which remains a possibility, apparently a strong one, as well as acceptance of responsibility on account of your early guilty plea.

As I discussed with you at the beginning, do you understand that these predictions are not going to be binding on the probation officer or the Court when it comes time to fix a proper sentence?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: And I see there is no agreement about your criminal history or criminal history category. However, it is the belief of the parties at this time that you did not use any violence or credible threats of violence, or possess a firearm or other dangerous weapon in connection with this offense charged in Count One; that the offense charged in Count One did not result in death or serious bodily injury to any person; and that you are not an organizer, leader, manager, or supervisor of others in the offense charged in Count One; and you were not engaged in a continuing criminal enterprise.

As I said before, the probation officer in investigating your case may come to a contrary view about the matter, and the Court has no way of knowing now what the probation officer will recommend. In other words, these stipulations are not binding on the Court.

Do you understand that?

THE DEFENDANT: I do.

MR. WILKE: May I have a moment, your Honor?

THE COURT: Of course.

MR. WILKE: Thank you.

(Counsel and Defendant confer.)

MR. WILKE: Thank you, your Honor.

We're ready to go forward.

THE COURT: All right.

And, Mr. Dominguez, have you understood everything that I have reviewed with you so far?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: All right.

In the next part of the plea agreement, there is an outline of what you are obliged to do and what the U.S. Attorney's Office is obliged to do. Apparently, the U.S. Attorney's Office has bound itself to make a recommendation for a sentence at the low end of the guideline range, provided that the range as calculated by the Court is 27 or higher and provided there is no downward departure.

[21]

Even if, and you must understand, even if the U.S. Attorney's Office adheres to its part of the plea agreement to make a recommendation for a sentence at the low end, that recommendation, like any other, is not going to bind the Court when it comes to fixing the sentence in your case.

Has that been made clear to you?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: On page 8, there is a limited mutual waiver of appeal.

Here, in paragraph 17, you are telling us that you give up the right to appeal any sentence in this case, so long as the offense level comes out at 27 or below. And it appears that the government is likewise going to give up its right to appeal, so long as the offense level comes out at 29 or above.

There's a lot of initials written on page 8. So I guess I will ask Mr. Wilke to help us identify who signed what where.

MR. WILKE: Your Honor, there are three interlineations made at paragraph 17.

In the heading, "Collateral Attack" is taken out and that's Mr. Dominguez's, myself's, and I believe Ms. Luege's initials there.

The same three initials appear at line 19 where the number has been changed to 27.

And then again, the same three initials appear at line 25, indicating that that entire last sentence of paragraph 17 has been taken out, and that sentence relates to a waiver of collateral attack.

THE COURT: I see.

And, Ms. Luege, those are your initials?

MS. LUEGE: That's correct, your Honor.

THE COURT: And is there anything that government counsel wants to add with respect to the safety valve issue?

In other words, is it fairly likely that this defendant will qualify, or can you make any other prediction at this point?

MS. LUEGE: I think it's possible that he may qualify.

THE COURT: And that's why the agreed upon facts as to three parts; is that right?

MS. LUEGE: That's correct.

THE COURT: All right.

Is there anything else that government counsel wants to add at this point?

MS. LUEGE: No, except I was thinking when I read the top of page 9 that I don't know if we should change—if we change that level 29 in the prior paragraph to 27, and it makes me think that perhaps we ought to change that to 27 also right there.

THE COURT: Is that your intent that it be a level 27 as the turning point for the mutual waiver of appeal?

MR. WILKE: Yes, it is, your Honor.

MS. LUEGE: I think that makes sense to make that change.

MR. WILKE: That is, your Honor.

Line 3, page 9, the 29 should be changed to 27 there.

THE COURT: Why don't you select a copy between the copies that you folks are working from that you can turn around and file after the hearing.

And let's make sure that it's clear to Mr. Dominguez what this change is because I think it's finalizing your agreement, as it were, with regard to the limited mutual waiver of appeal. But I would invite his initials as well.

MR. WILKE: Yes, your Honor.

May I have just a moment to explain this to him?

THE COURT: Yes, of course.

(Counsel and Defendant confer.)

MS. LUEGE: May I suggest, your Honor, if this is not improper on my part, but I was thinking that rather than file another plea agreement, because we filed the original, and I'm wondering if there is any chance that when we finish [24] the proceeding, the clerk of the Court can give us back the original that we filed, we could make the changes and give it back to the clerk so that we're not filing another document that is also—I mean, it wouldn't be an original, it would be now a copy.

THE COURT: It's sort of a supplement.

I don't know if you can pry it free from the clerk's office downstairs. I assume that that's where it resides in the file.

And if you want to then track Mr. Dominguez down and have him initial it, it's fine with me.

MS. LUEGE: I didn't realize that the Court didn't have—I thought maybe the Court had the original here. I didn't realize that procedurally that was—that is something in my book.

THE COURT: It was filed October 12th, which means it was done downstairs in the clerk's office and we wouldn't have the original here.

MS. LUEGE: I see.

THE COURT: And I'm willing to accept Mr. Wilke's representation if he tells me now there is a C.D. at line 3, page 9, and also a C.W. and C.R.L. on one copy which somebody has possession of.

MR. WILKE: I've explained that change to Mr. Dominguez. He's in agreement with it, your Honor.

[25]

And it is the parties' understanding that the number at line 3, page 9, should be 27. The copy I have indicates 29, but I've now crossed it out on mine and initialed it.

Could I just have you initial it right there? Your Honor, the three parties have now initialed and we can go ahead and file this copy with the clerk. And then I'll get another copy for Ms. Luege.

THE COURT: All right.

Let's go back to paragraph 17. The point here is, Mr. Dominguez, that you are essentially giving up the right to have any other court review your sentence by way of direct review, so that the sentence we give you here in the District Court will be your final sentence.

Do you understand that?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: Is that what you intend?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: All right.

And the other part has been stricken out and the U.S. Attorney now is likewise bound to give up its right to appeal so long as the offense level comes out at 27 or above.

Now then, in the next section of your plea agreement, there is a discussion about who is and is not a [26] party to the plea agreement and the circumstances under which you may or may not be allowed to withdraw your guilty plea. I won't review that word by word, but I will go to paragraph 21.

In this paragraph, you represent, except as set forth herein, there are no promises, understandings, or agreements between the U.S. Attorney's Office and you or your counsel.

Is that absolutely true?

THE DEFENDANT: Could you repeat the question for me, please?

THE COURT: Yes.

At this paragraph, you are representing that, except as set forth herein—meaning, in this plea agreement—there are no promises, understandings, or agreements between the U.S. Attorney's Office and you or your counsel.

THE DEFENDANT: That's right.

THE COURT: You agree that's true?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: Very well.

When I take your guilty plea, I take it because you represent to the Court that there is a factual basis for your guilty plea, that you understand what you are charged with, and you actually committed the crime charged in Count [27] One.

Are you ready for me to go forward and take your guilty plea?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: By your guilty plea then, you represent that you are not pleading guilty because of promises made, threats made against you, or mistreatments or misunderstandings, but because you desire to admit that you are guilty as charged in Count One.

Is that an accurate statement?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes, it is.

THE COURT: Mr. Dominguez, are you related to a codefendant in this case named Marcelino Gomez-Benitez or is it just a coincidence?

THE DEFENDANT: That's a coincidence.

THE COURT: I see.

All right. So no one close to you, related to you, associated with you has somehow been threatened in any way to make you come forward and plead guilty?

THE DEFENDANT: No.

THE COURT: Then looking back to the indictment, the charge against you is that you violated Title 21 of the U.S. Code, Section 846, which charges you with conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute methamphetamine. It sets out the allegations on pages 1, 2, and 3 of this indictment.

[28]

Would you like those read to you again at this time so you are fully mindful of what you are pleading to?

THE DEFENDANT: No, it is fine like this.

THE COURT: All right.

To the charge in Count One that you did violate Title 21 of the U.S. Code, Section 846, as set forth, pages 1, 2, 3, of the indictment, how do you now plead?

THE DEFENDANT: Guilty.

THE COURT: I accept your guilty plea to Count One and enter the following findings:

First of all, I am satisfied that Mr. Dominguez has understood these proceedings that we have conducted today and that he understands the terms of the plea agreement which we have reviewed at some length; that he understands that the plea agreement is not binding upon the Court when it comes time for sentencing.

And I wanted to make sure that Mr. Dominguez has understood all of my questions, because he was recently before the Court and indicated a disinclination to accept whatever it was that was then being considered by him for a disposition in this case.

For whatever reason, clearly Mr. Dominguez has convinced me that he has come forward to offer his guilty plea because it is what he wants to do; that he is satisfied the plea agreement is in his best interest; and that, of [29] course, he is guilty as charged in Count One.

So I rely upon the information imparted to the Court in the plea agreement, and what Mr. Dominguez has told me after he has been placed under oath, and the representations made over his signature in the plea agreement, and what his counsel has represented as well.

Counsel has represented that he signed this plea agreement on page 11, dated 10-12-99. And I have assumed, but I will clarify that you, Mr. Wilke, were present throughout the proceedings when Mr. Hernandez was reviewing this plea agreement with your client. Is that right?

MR. WILKE: That's correct, your Honor.

THE COURT: So everything over your signature is true and correct?

MR. WILKE: That's correct.

THE COURT: And do you believe that this plea agreement is in your client's best interest?

MR. WILKE: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: So his guilty plea is actually made with the complete understanding, as best you can determine, about the sentencing guidelines and the penalties that are provided for by law, including the mandatory minimum sentence?

MR. WILKE: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: And do you believe that he understands [30] all of his constitutional rights?

MR. WILKE: Yes, I do, your Honor.

THE COURT: And have you made any promises to him about the exact sentence the Court will give him?

MR. WILKE: No, I have not.

THE COURT: But obviously you've discussed the sentencing guidelines with him very carefully?

MR. WILKE: That's correct, your Honor.

THE COURT: So he proceeds to make his guilty plea with your advice and consent and your concurrence?

MR. WILKE: That's correct, your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you.

The Court finds that the defendant understands each and all of his constitutional rights, that he's knowingly, intelligently, and voluntarily waived those rights and that he's made his guilty plea freely and voluntarily and not because of promises, threats, or inducements made to him by others or the plea agreement.

We will go ahead and set the matter down for sentencing. I will ask the clerk to set a date and time.

THE CLERK: January 31st, 2000, 4 o'clock p.m.

THE COURT: Is that available for both counsel?

MR. WILKE: Yes, your Honor.

MS. LUEGE: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: Then the probation officer is directed [31] to prepare a presentence report returnable 1-31-2000, at 4:00 p.m. or such other date and time as the Court may order.

Let me ask counsel if you anticipate any particular difficult issues with regard to background or circumstances of the offense.

Mr. Wilke?

MR. WILKE: No, your Honor.

THE COURT: Ms. Luege, you agree?

MS. LUEGE: Yes.

THE COURT: All right.

Anything further in Mr. Dominguez's case today?

MR. WILKE: Nothing further, your Honor.

MS. LUEGE: I have nothing further, your Honor.

THE COURT: That being the case then, we will vacate the trial date as to this defendant and adjourn proceedings in his matter.

COUNSEL: Thank you.

(Proceedings adjourned.)

CARLOS DOMINGUEZ, DEFENDANT

[Filed: Jan. 26, 2000]

DEFENDANT'S WITHDRAWAL OF REQUEST TO CONTINUE SENTENCING, POSITION
RE: SENTENCING AND PERSONAL
STATEMENT RE: SENTENCING

Defendant CARLOS DOMINGUEZ, by and through his attorney of record, Deputy Federal Public Defender Craig Wilke, hereby withdraws his request to continue the sentencing hearing from Monday, January 31, 2000, to Monday, March 6, 2000. This request was made by way of a stipulation and proposed order lodged with the Court on January 24, 2000. Mr. DOMINGUEZ no longer requires a continuance because defense counsel received the Presentence Report on January 25, 2000, and reviewed it with Mr. DOMINGUEZ on January 26, 2000.

Mr. DOMINGUEZ has no material objections to the Presentence Report. Mr. DOMINGUEZ concurs with the Probation Officer's recommendation that he be sentenced to the mandatory-minimum term of 120 months imprisonment. Mr. DOMINGUEZ requests that the Court recommend to the Bureau of Prisons that he be incarcerated in a facility in the Southern California area.

Finally, Mr. DOMINGUEZ submits a personal statement, attached hereto as Exhibit A, for the Court's consideration at the time of sentencing.

Respectfully Submitted,

TRANSLATION

(1) Honorable Judge Alice Marie Stotler [sic]

My name is Carlos Dominguez Benitez

[illegible flourish]

My reason for writing or the reason for my letter is to let you know under oath and in writing that the information I gave regarding my life to the probation officer, in the presence of my attorney, is completely true.

Because the real reason I'm incarcerated was due to forces beyond me. I am the one responsible for the support of my children and my mother, and it was right around that time that I was going through really tough economic times. My wife had given birth, I hadn't paid the rent and other food expenditures and bills. For the first time, I felt there was not way out, pressured, without knowing what to do. This opportunity came up, or rather, I was drawn into this business. I'm saying that I was drawn into it because I did not know the informant. I was prompted by despair, I agreed even though I had a feeling that something bad was going to happen to me because of the pressure from my expenses, and I was thinking that unless I paid the rent, where was I going to take my family? And, well, I did not have what it took to resolve the problem.

Maybe now my remorse won't do me any good, but I should tell you that it's not just that I'm remorseful, but also that it has made me very sad, because due to this error or offense that I committed, while looking for a way to resolve my economic problem back then, I only managed to lose my family. I've lost them, and perhaps forever, and even without knowing what justice has in store for me when I stand before you,

(2) it's very sad and painful for me, and believe me, I never imagined I would go through an experience like this one. I've lived my life alone, far away from my parents, that is to say, I grew up an orphan. Ever since I was very young I've had to face life. I had to work very hard and go it alone in order to get to my present age. I know and I understand the seriousness of my situation. I just hope for a little bit of consideration from you as a human being. I'm looking for a chance, a chance for my life not to be destroyed totally. I'm hoping with my heart full of hope, that on the day of my sentencing I may receive a fair sentence, so that not too long from now I might return to my country to fight for my home, to recover my family who are the reason for my existence. I again swear to you that my remorse is greater than the pain and sadness of having lost [crossed-out word], for now, my children, because I know that it was my mistake [illegible flourish] that caused all of this. Lastly, I want you to know that I'm never going to forget this experience, and even though I've never been a delinquent like the one I've been made out to be, I swear to you that I'll never again set foot in a jail, wherever I may be, for another error or offense like this one.

I take my leave most respectfully, hoping to receive a little bit of consideration from you, [who represent] justice.

Yours very truly, Carlos Dominguez. [illegible flourish]

THE CLERK: Calling item number 14, SA CR 99-67-AHS, United States of America vs. Carlos Dominguez.

Counsel, your appearances, please.

MS. LUEGE: Good afternoon, your Honor.

Carmen Luege on behalf of the United States.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. WILKE: Good evening, your Honor.

Craig Wilke on behalf of Mr. Dominguez who is present, in custody.

THE COURT: Yes. I'm sorry to have to make you wait behind a matter that was not intended to be lengthy.

Is the Court's interpreter still present as well?

MR. WILKE: Yes. Mr. Dominguez is being assisted by the Spanish interpreter.

THE INTERPRETER: Good afternoon, your Honor.

Dolores Gordon, certified federal interpreter. My oath is on file.

THE COURT: This matter is trailing behind the Roberson case. We appreciate your patience.

The Court has before it the matter of sentencing after the defendant's guilty plea to Count One of the Indictment. And we have been able to review the filings by [6] the parties.

We need to make sure that the defendant is prepared to go forward today, since the presentence report has not been in his hands for the full 35 days.

MR. WILKE: Your Honor, defense counsel is prepared to go forward, but I would ask Mr. Dominguez respond directly to the Court.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. WILKE: I've been given contrary statements from him about that.

THE COURT: Mr. Dominguez, the rules require that the report from the probation officer be available to you for at least 35 days, and we note that when the presentence report was given to us, that it was disclosed to counsel and to you on January 25th.

Obviously, this is not 35 days later. I know that, according to your counsel's filing, you've had a chance to review it back on the 26th.

Are you satisfied to go forward with your sentencing today or would you like more time to consider it?

THE DEFENDANT: I would like more time.

THE COURT: All right.

Mr. Wilke, give us a date that's serviceable on your calendar, please, and we will reset the matter.

THE DEFENDANT: I even wrote a letter, your Honor.

[7]

THE COURT: I'm sorry, I can't hear you.

THE DEFENDANT: I even wrote a letter, your Honor.

THE COURT: And the purpose of the letter is to do what?

THE DEFENDANT: For the Court.

THE COURT: But does it pertain to a resetting of the matter, or does it pertain to sentencing?

THE DEFENDANT: To talk about this sentencing, and also about my attorney because I'm not satisfied with the help that I have received from him.

THE COURT: Well, let me ask Mr. Wilke as an officer of the Court, a) to give us a new date for a hearing and b) to accept from the defendant the letter so that it can be properly filed and made of record as opposed to something other than presented by way of something in an envelope.

MR. WILKE: As to a date, your Honor, I would ask for March 13th, that it's over 35 days. And I'm not available March 6th, which I believe would be the next 35-day time.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. WILKE: I'll be in L.A. that day, but March 13th.

THE COURT: And, Ms. Luege, would that work for you?

[8]

MS. LUEGE: That's fine, your Honor.

THE COURT: Let me ask the clerk to locate an open time spot on our March 13 calendar for further proceedings.

And then the letter, if appropriate, needs to be filed under seal if it's got confidential information in it. And, Mr. Wilke, if you feel that you can not submit it to the Court, then I'll let the defendant give it to the clerk.

MR. WILKE: Your Honor, I have no problem filing it under seal with the Court.

I believe Mr. Dominguez may have some objection to me seeing the letter, though, and I'd ask the Court to inquire of him.

THE COURT: Mr. Dominguez, do you have any objection to the Court receiving your letter through Mr. Wilke who knows how to properly file it with the Court, or is it something that you want to leave in the envelope for me to see directly?

THE DEFENDANT: I want this letter to go to the Court, to the Court only, because I tried to send the letter to the Court through Mr.—through my attorney, and he did not deliver it.

THE COURT: You must understand that a) I will take it from you, but b) I may decide to file it as part of the public record. There is no promise or guarantee that [9] whatever it is you write to me will necessarily be private from the prosecutor or from your attorney.

Now, knowing that, you're welcome to give it to me.

THE DEFENDANT: There is no problem with me for my attorney to read it, but the most important thing is that the Court also reads it.

THE COURT: Yes. And I will do that.

And I will also make it of record, one way or the other, so it's clear we have received it.

What we will do is put your sentencing over to March the 13th.

What time?

THE CLERK: Three thirty.

THE COURT: Three thirty in the afternoon, so that you've got more time to consider the presentence report.

We will accept the letter from you, and we will have the matter go forward on that date. If in the event I read something in your letter that is of concern to me and/or to counsel if it is in fact disclosed to counsel that necessitates other proceedings, we will calendar a status conference before the date of March the 13th at 3:30 p.m.

In light of these proceedings, is there anything else, Ms. Luege, that you wish to inform us of?

MS. LUEGE: Nothing further, your Honor.

[10] THE COURT: And how about you, Mr. Wilke?

MR. WILKE: One brief thing, your Honor.

Just for the record, I would note that as part of the filing on January 26th, attached thereto was Exhibit A which is a letter from Mr. Dominguez to the Court with the English translation.

THE COURT: Yes. And I've received that and I have read that.

So perhaps that's one letter that Mr. Dominguez has referred to in passing today. But that letter is already before us and I trust that you can show it to him as you sit there now, so that he is aware we have already read that.

(Counsel complies.)

THE COURT: All right.

That's the Court's order in this matter. Thank you.

MS. LUEGE: Thank you, your Honor.

THE COURT: We stand adjourn.

(In Chambers) ORDER FILING LETTER OF DEFENDANT

On January 31, 2000, the Court received the attached letter from the defendant in open court.

The letter is ordered filed. The clerk is directed to serve this minute order along with the letter on the attorneys of record and defendant Dominguez.

[Received: Feb. 1, 2000]

Dear Honorable, Alice Marie Stotler,

My name is carlos Dominguez I am 31 years old and currently incarcerated at Santa Ana, Santa Ana, CA. I have been I custody since 5/13/99 and will be respectfully be in front of you and your court for sentencing on 1/31/00 the reason for this letter is not only to let you know about myself but also to inform you of the unfair representation I feel I have received from my lawyer. I feel that my lawyer has done nothing for me from the start. I asked for a meeting to be set up with the D.E.A. with my lawyer responding "they do not want to talk to you" and a meeting was never set up not because the D.E.A. declined but only because my lawyer never asked. Also I asked for a meeting to be set up with the D.A. witch to say never happened because of my lawyer. I wanted to asked you for a new lawyer and when I had the chance to in court my lawyer whispered in my ear that I was not allowed to say anything to you or to speak openly with the court. With me having a langue barrier I could not ask you if this were true. Now that I am to come before you and your court to get sentenced and I feel that I was not fairly represtated. I respectfully ask you to put off my sentencing due to the fact I feel I was railroaded into signing the deal that I signed. Also I respectfully ask you that you assign me a new lawyer and a fair amount of time in witch me and my new lawyer may go over my case. I am sorry that this notice came to you at such a short time, but I knew of nothing else to do. I thank you for your time and I pray that the court will find my request in order.

Sincerely,

Carlos Dominguez

[Received: Mar. 3, 2000]

Honorable Judge Alice Marie Stoler

My name is Carlos Dominguez Benitez, with all due respect I ask for your forgiveness for bothering you again.

Honorable Judge the reason I write this letter is to explain that I feel I didn't get the opportunity to get proper legal representation in my case. My lawyer Craick Wilke and I never had good communication he never listened to my opinions or petitions. Whenever I asked him questions he always answered me with as little information as possible. He has always made me feel like the worst criminal of all. He has made me get into a state of desperation. I don't know what to do I feel that my life dos not life anymore. I feel that I'm waiting for my death. I ask myself why so much pain why is tit that they deny me of an opportunity to redeem myself. I ask myself if my mistake is the worst in the world.

My lawyer, since the first meeting we had all he talks to me about was a sentence of 10,15 and 20 years. I understand and accept my responsibility but nobody has ever understood me or considered anything of why I did what I did. I never looked for anyone they came looking for me. Like I told the Government I did it as necessary I did it to comply with me economic of my program and my family well being knowing that my family was in economic problems I did what I did now I'm incarcerated and facing the biggest problem I have ever had in my life that why I ask for your consideration in my case and if I could have the proper legal representation thank you Honor Alice M. Stodler

THE CLERK: Calling item number 31, SA CR 99-67-AHS, United States of America vs. Carlos Dominguez.

Counsel, your appearances, please.

MS. LUEGE: Good afternoon, your Honor.

Carmen Luege on behalf of the United States.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. WILKE: Good afternoon, your Honor.

Craig Wilke on behalf of Mr. Dominguez who is present, in custody, being assisted by a Spanish interpreter.

I do apologize for my lateness.

THE COURT: Thank you.

And the interpreter's appearance, please.

THE INTERPRETER: Good afternoon, your Honor.

Dolores Gordon, certified federal interpreter. My oath is on file.

THE COURT: Thank you.

The Court has before it once again the matter of sentencing in Mr. Dominguez's case. Again, we have given to counsel a tentative ruling concerning our findings based upon the parties' filings and the presentence report.

At this time, the 35-day period has been passed, [5] irrespective of waiver, and we've had the opportunity, I'm certain, for what needed to be accomplished to be accomplished.

At the last hearing, the Court did receive a communication from Mr. Dominguez and, as promised, it was filed and distributed to counsel. That was on January 31, 2000.

And on March 6, 2000, the Court received an additional letter from defendant indicating at this time that he feels he has not had good communication with Mr. Wilke and explaining to the Court the reasons for the commission of the offense, as I read the last paragraph.

I'm going to proceed with the sentencing. I fully expect to hear from Mr. Dominguez. And to the extent that he needs to amplify or expand upon what he has already written to us, he is welcome to do so.

Let me also say that, based upon counsel's request to the Court, I'm inclined to make the recommendation requested that defendant be placed in a Southern California facility. And as before, I have read the defendant's letter to the Court that was submitted in defense counsel's submission to the Court earlier.

As I recall, we started before and Mr. Wilke had brief remarks. I think we should start once again, turn to Mr. Dominguez for any remarks that he may wish to give to [6] us, and then hear from the government. And if that's not a historical recitation that's fully accurate, counsel may correct me.

Let's turn to Mr. Wilke now.

MR. WILKE: Thank you, your Honor.

With regard to the appropriate sentence, your Honor, the only issue there is where within the guideline range he should be sentenced. As the Court is aware, this is a ten-year mandatory minimum case and there is no availability for relief from the mandatory minimum sentence.

We would submit that a sentence of 120 months, which is the mandatory minimum, is appropriate. It constitutes approximately the middle of the range of the applicable sentencing guideline range, which is 108 to 135. And in light of the fact that this is—will be the first prison commitment for this defendant, ten years is a lengthy period of time.

One point that I would like to bring to the Court's attention is, since being incarcerated, Mr. Dominguez has completed his equivalency degree, his G.E.D. and been attending those classes; he has got some documentation to that effect that he's brought with him. It has not been previously filed with the Court, but I am bringing that to the Court's attention. I think that does bear upon where within the range he should be sentenced.

[7]

And if the Court would like that documentation, we can file that either after the hearing, or the Court could look at it now.

THE COURT: I can accept your representation.

Did you say he's actually received the degree?

MR. WILKE: He's received the certificate, yes, your Honor. And he has that with him.

THE COURT: All right. Good.

No, I'd just as soon he keep it since it's valuable proof.

MR. WILKE: The other factor, I think, that the Court should be aware of is that this defendant—and I think this largely explains this defendant's lack of satisfaction with his legal representation.

This defendant entered into a plea agreement with at least an expectation that he would be eligible for a sentence below the mandatory minimum. And when it became clear upon receipt of the presentence report that that wasn't available, that is really what precipitated, I believe, the breakdown in attorney-client—the attorney-client relationship that the Court has become aware of.

THE COURT: I'm not sure it's such a breakdown from what I have been able to ascertain from defendant's letters, but I can see the criminal history for this [8] defendant took him out of the eligibility category that apparently others in similar circumstances were qualified for.

MR. WILKE: Correct. And which the parties—as is reflected I think in the plea agreement, the parties expected he would qualify for, at least going into it.

The government, both parties stipulated as part of the plea agreement a safety valve application, at least a safety valve factor. So the safety valve was contemplated, but then turned out not to be appropriate in light of the criminal history.

With that, given that he is looking at a significant period of time that is far in excess of what he expected, and he has made efforts to at least accomplish something beneficial to his life during the time he's been in jail so far, I would submit that a sentence of 120 months is appropriate and I'd ask the Court to give him that sentence.

THE COURT: Very well. Thank you.

Mr. Dominguez, let me invite you to make any statements that you wish to make. Under the circumstances, I think it may be appropriate to ask you and the interpreter to stand at the lectern since the sound system does not appear conducive to speaking from the counsel table.

And I'll be pleased to hear from you with regard [9] to anything you wish to say regarding the judgment and your case.

THE DEFENDANT: I have never felt that I had the proper representation, the way it should have been in my case.

From the beginning, I never had any knowledge about the points of responsibility, the safety valve, or anything like that. I honestly, from the beginning, I accepted responsibility through my attorney, but he never paid any attention to me, to what I told him about the problem that I had. I told him from the beginning that I had a problem, that I was attending a program. And at the end, he told me allegedly that I had never told him, that I had never notified him of it.

I have never hidden anything in my case about the things that I have done. Everything I said—I have said has been the truth and the reason why I did it. And I always asked for another chance. I always asked him for an opportunity to meet with a government agent, and he never wanted to do that.

And every time he came to see me, he treated me like if I was the worst of the criminals, making me feel badly. From the very, very beginning, he told me that it was going to 10, 15, or 22 years. And I ask myself, how could that be possible.

And honestly, I have never felt comfortable even when I asked him to postpone the sentencing and he said he was not going to do that. And I asked him why not, and he said that there should have been a very important reason to do it. And I told him, "Isn't the ten years that I am going to get not important enough?"

I have always told him about my family and about my children who are depending on me. And honestly, I assert my—I assert responsibility, I made a mistake. However, I am not the type of criminal that I'm being made to be.

The program that I had I explained to my attorney from the first day that he came to see me. And I was attending that program doing properly, and really the crime that I committed, somebody sought me, I didn't look for the crime.

THE COURT: Can I ask you if you are talking about the diversion program from one of the state courts?

THE DEFENDANT: The drugs?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: And so you are telling me that this was something that you had discussed with your attorney?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: And when you talk about the problem you had, is that also related to being on a diversion [11] program from the state court?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: So you are indicating that you believe everyone knew about your criminal history?

Is that what you're saying?

THE DEFENDANT: Well, from the very beginning when he went—when he came to see me, I explained it to him.

THE COURT: I understand.

So what you're indicating to me is that you believe from the beginning you had disclosed that you had a criminal record; is that right?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: And so are you suggesting now that because your attorney knew about it, that the government attorney should have known about it and the Court should have known that you would not qualify for the, quote, "safety valve," as the guidelines calls it?

THE DEFENDANT: Actually, that's what was never explained to me.

THE COURT: Well, the plea agreement that was entered into and discussed with you, I think talked about the safety valve and explained that you might qualify.

Do you remember that?

THE DEFENDANT: When I signed here before the Court, I signed at a level 27.

[12]

THE COURT: Well, I think what you signed is of record and it speaks for itself.

I'm trying to understand what it is that somehow is wrong with your case, and so far I'm not hearing anything that is wrong with your case except that you may not be comfortable either with the attorney or how the case is coming out. Yet you continue to tell me that you have accepted responsibility for what you did wrong.

THE DEFENDANT: Yes. I have—

THE COURT: I'm sorry.

THE DEFENDANT: I have always accepted responsibility, but from the beginning I have felt that my attorney and I didn't have enough communication.

THE COURT: And what would you have be different?

THE DEFENDANT: That he should have explained to me from the beginning what it was meant by the points, by the safety valve, by everything. And I never knew about that.

THE COURT: Well, we had a lengthy change of plea proceedings, Mr. Dominguez, and it's difficult for me to accept what you say in light of those proceedings that we conducted. But I'm willing to hear you out and I want to make clear that we are proceeding to the sentencing today.

I do not see that there is something before me or of record that says there is something wrong with the way [13] your case was handled or how it comes out, although I do understand that you may be disappointed. Therefore, I do not intend to change your attorney, but I want to make sure that we hear what you have to say, not only about your case generally, but about you specifically.

Mr. Wilke has already told us that you have achieved the general education degree, which hopefully indicates a successful period of time in custody which will lead to better things after you are released.

Please, continue.

THE DEFENDANT: I'm sorry.

When I was arrested by the state, allegedly I was given formal probation and I was told that if I did not comply, if I didn't do everything with the formal probation that I was given, I was going to get from three to six months in jail.

And that's what I don't understand. If I was at my first offense level here, I signed at a level 27. When Probation came to see me and I talked to them about my life and they came back with a report, with a level 29 and a number 3 on the crime, that's what I don't understand.

THE COURT: I understand how it came out that way.

They have researched through the probation officer these offenses. And under the guidelines, these are the proper points assigned to you for those prior proceedings. [14] There are many names used in these cases, but they come back to you and you do not deny that. And the way these offenses were researched shows to me that they have been properly calculated so as to take you out of category 1 and put you in category 3.

THE DEFENDANT: When I was incarcerated before and I went before the Court, it is explained to the Court in that report. I paid for it, I was 20 days incarcerated and I paid for it.

And the only thing that was pending was the program, and I was doing the program. That's why I don't understand. Allegedly they are giving me two more felonies.

THE COURT: No, that wouldn't be right.

But I suspect you didn't finish the program because you got arrested and therefore a bench warrant was issued when you didn't complete it.

THE DEFENDANT: Yes, I didn't—I didn't comply with the program. How could I? I was arrested here.

THE COURT: Right.

THE DEFENDANT: I was attending the program and I was doing things well until the informant, I don't know who gave him my number, and I was pulled by necessity.

I had all the expenses for the program, all the expenses for my family, my—my companion had just had a baby. I had too many expenses, and due to necessity I find [15] myself here.

THE COURT: Yes, sir, I do understand that.

Is there anything else you would like to say?

THE DEFENDANT: That was the most important, at least for you to listen to me.

THE COURT: Yes, sir. Thank you.

Please, take a seat.

THE DEFENDANT: Thank you.

THE COURT: Let me invite government counsel to respond to both defense counsel's remarks and any of the statements made by defendant.

MS. LUEGE: I think that Mr. Wilke is correct when he points out that there's nothing much that anyone can do in this case because we're up against this mandatory statutory minimum of ten years.

I do want to clarify, I hope clarify, for the record a couple of things. Initially, when counsel and I negotiated this plea agreement, we both envisioned that he qualified, that the defendant would qualify for the safety valve. The government was unaware that defendant had any prior convictions that would intervene with that.

Shortly before entering the actual guilty plea, we found out that there was this diversion on this defendant and that that had occurred, as the Court can see at paragraph 83 of the presentence report, on April 6th of '99. [16] And we had arrested this defendant, I think, in May of '99. So we found out about this and I immediately—that is, we, the government found out about it—and I immediately discussed it with Mr. Wilke, that we had this diversion.

And I was concerned about the effect that that would have on the safety valve and the terms of the plea agreement that in good faith we had sent counsel. In our discussions, Mr. Wilke and I decided to leave the agreement very much, I mean, there were changes made here in court because Mr. Wilke made some changes in court that day, the day of the actual change of plea.

But basically, with regard to the safety valve issue, we decided that Mr. Wilke wanted to have the opportunity to argue to the Court that he would still qualify for the safety valve because there was no final judgment, because maybe he would only end up with one criminal history point and then he would still qualify, even with that problem.

And so, because we had issued the plea offer in good faith and Mr. Wilke's present representation to the government made sense, I could see a possibility of intervening factors making the safety valve still applicable, we left the agreement as we had originally drafted it. There were a couple of changes made here in court that day, but then we proceeded.

What Mr. Wilke and I found out, once we got the Pretrial Services report, and I know this from our conversations, that it was after we got the probation report—I'm sorry if I called it pretrial—the probation report, we found out that there was this other criminal history points, as stated in paragraph 77 and paragraph 80, and paragraph 90 of the probation report.

And these additional criminal history points had nothing to do with the diversion issue that Mr.—well, at least mostly two of them didn't have anything to do with the diversion issue that Mr. Wilke and I had been worried about. So that even if Mr. Wilke came here and argued to the Court that, you know, he should only get one criminal history point for the diversion and so still qualify for the safety valve because he had these additional points, that argument would now be meaningless.

And that is how we find ourselves in the situation we're in, which is, the government and the defense counsel entered into a good faith—and the defendant entered into a good faith plea agreement, and because of this unforeseen situations, the defendant can not receive the benefit of the bargain in essence, because he has to go and serve the mandatory minimum ten years.

And I think that explains, at least from the government's perspective, what occurred. And I wanted to [18] put that on the record because official proceedings may come up as a result of this, so that at least there's a record of the government's understanding of what happened in this case.

And I don't know whether the Court has any questions for me.

THE COURT: I alluded to the fact that these prior convictions were in other names.

MS. LUEGE: Yes.

THE COURT: And that is significant, I think, in the sense that persons entering into a plea agreement for one Carlos Dominguez-Benitez, wouldn't necessarily be looking for charges against Antonio Cardinez, Carlos Alberto Dominguez, and a series of other names. And that's what I was trying to explain to defendant, that how this case comes out criminal history category 3 is very apparent, I think.

MS. LUEGE: Yes.

THE COURT: The diversion is also a conviction, albeit not a sentence, as I read these proceedings. And my understanding is that the state court seems to require the conviction by the guilty plea.

MS. LUEGE: That's correct.

THE COURT: And so long as a person does not get arrested in the interim and successfully completes the diversion program, then there would not be a sentence and a [19] dismissal, presumably. Unfortunately, Count One here, this offense behavior, interrupted that program which defendant tells us was going well.

So I understand how it came out this way. I think the defendant understands, but is not pleased with this. And I can understand that, but I do understand as well how the plea agreement came out.

MS. LUEGE: And let me just clarify that also.

When the government first obtained the rap sheet for this defendant, the criminal history, it did not reflect any of these offenses. And I think it is, the Court is correct, because the agent was running a certain name and it just, you know, the record wasn't there for the person and we didn't find it.

THE COURT: And with regard then to defense counsel's position, obviously the government is in agreement that the low end of the sentencing guideline would be appropriate under all of the circumstances.

MS. LUEGE: Oh, certainly, your Honor.

And that's within the terms of the plea agreement, and the government stands behind that plea agreement and its recommendations in every way, except we are precluded from going below that because of the safety valve, your Honor.

THE COURT: Because of the mandatory sentence.

MS. LUEGE: The mandatory minimum, yeah, the [20] safety valve.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MS. LUEGE: Thank you.

THE COURT: Is there any legal cause why the sentence should not now be pronounced?

MR. WILKE: No, your Honor.

THE COURT: Very well.

First of all, the Court has read and considered not only the presentence report, but the letter that Mr. Dominguez wrote to the Court and the reasons why this crime was committed. They are not unusual reasons, but they do result, not uncommonly, in ten-year sentences and much longer.

While I think there is reason for Mr. Dominguez to be disappointed in the outcome, that is to say, he must be sentenced under the mandatory minimum and he does not qualify for the safety valve, I can not see that anything was mishandled or anything came out wrong. In fact, the government attorney's explanation is essentially what I regard to be the background to the case, and the research by the probation officer bears out this outcome.

His disappointment, as I say, is quite understandable, especially in light of the proceedings as to other persons in the case. But he nonetheless has the criminal history category 3. Therefore, I do rule in [21] accordance with the tentative ruling and adopt the probation officer's recommendation.

I will proceed to sentence defendant in accordance with that recommendation and we will, of course, be relating back his sentence from the time of his incarceration, which was May 13, 1999.

In addition, the Court will advise the defendant of his right to appeal in light of the fact that the sentence came out at offense level 29 rather than 27.

Finally, we will grant the defendant's request to recommend placement in a Southern California facility for the reasons identified by counsel.

As to the count of conviction, it is the judgment of the Court that the defendant be imprisoned for a term of 120 months, that is on Count One.

He is not required to pay any fines because he does not have the ability to pay a fine.

There is a $100 special assessment which is mandatory and which is ordered to be paid forthwith.

Upon defendant's release from custody, he is placed on five years of supervised release. He shall comply with the rules and regulations of the Probation Office and General Order 318.

He is ordered to participate in outpatient substance abuse treatment and submit to drug and alcohol [22] testing as instructed by his probation officer.

He is instructed to abstain from using illicit drugs, using alcohol, and abusing prescription medications during the period of supervision.

During the period of community supervision, the defendant shall pay the special assessment in accordance with this judgment.

Condition 4, the defendant shall comply with the rules and regulations of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, I.N.S., and if deported from this country, either voluntarily or involuntarily, not to reenter the United States illegally.

Defendant is not required to report to the Probation Office while residing outside of the United States. However, within 72 hours of release from any custody or any reentry to the United States during the period of court ordered supervision, the defendant shall report for instructions to the U.S. Probation Office located in this building.

Next, the defendant shall not obtain or possess any driver's license or any form of identification in any name other than his true legal name, unless he has the prior written approval of the probation officer.

And finally, the defendant shall not use, for any purpose or in any manner, any name other than his true legal [23] name.

The Court selects the low end of the guideline range because it is recommended by the probation officer, because it is sought by defense counsel and urged by government counsel, and it is an appropriate sentence given the mandatory nature of the law involved.

I now remind the defendant that if he wishes to appeal the sentence pronounced today, that is to say, to have the reviewing court review the sentence, you must file a notice of appeal with the clerk of this Court no later than ten days from today's date. If you do not file a notice of appeal, there will be no appellate review of the Court's sentence.

Furthermore, if you are unable to hire counsel to represent you on the appeal, you may apply to the Court for appointment of counsel by submitting a financial affidavit to show that you are eligible for court appointed counsel to represent you on the appeal.

At this point, it appears that we have one count remaining.

Government counsel?

MS. LUEGE: Yes, your Honor.

The government moves to dismiss Count Two of the Indictment.

THE COURT: Count Two is dismissed as to this [24] defendant on motion of the government and in the interest of justice. And that will be the Court's order.

Is there anything else on defendant's behalf at this time, Mr. Wilke?

MR. WILKE: No, your Honor.

THE COURT: And on behalf of the government?

MS. LUEGE: No, your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you then.

And we will go ahead and excuse Mr. Dominguez and counsel, and go on to our next case.

(Proceedings concluded.)
